World Cultural Heritage Site and National Treasure – Himeji Castle MAP C-2

Himeji Castle was constructed at around the beginning of the 17th century and is described as the castle that was completed the most during the period when Japan's unique castle architecture technology was at its peak. It was designated a National Treasure in 1951 and was registered as Japan's first World Heritage Site (Cultural Heritage) in 1993. It is also known as Hakuro-jo or Shirasagijo ("White Heron Castle") because its elegant appearance plastered with white lime plaster is said to resemble a white heron taking off.
